BOARD OF SUPERVISORS FINISH THEIR WORK

GREAT AMOUNT OF BUSINESS IS COMPLETED BY COUNTY FATHERS.

REAPPOINT MR. AND MRS. WICHER

Fix Probation Officer's Salary—Appoint Committee to Investigate the Auto Tax Division—Board Wants Electric Wires in Country Insulated.

WHAT THE BOARD DID.

Reappointed Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Wicher as superintendent and matron of the County Home and Farm.
Fixed probation officer's salary at $300 per year, and readjusted other salaries.

Paid bills against the county.
Allowed salaries of members of the board of review totaling $800.

Approved tax levies of the various townships and ordered county clerk to extend taxes.

Appointed committee consisting of Supervisors Prescott, Gross and Burkett to look into auto license question and ascertain the prospects of a division of the money as is provided by the statutes.

Approved county tax levy, totaling $65,000.

Allowed payment of $723, county's half of two bridges and approaches in East Grove township.

Approved jury lists for the January term of court.

Appointed committee, consisting of Gross, Self and Young, to investigate and report at next meeting on question of compelling the insulation of all electric wires in the country.
Instructed Sheriff Reid to remove guard of Warren Sanders, who is in the county jail awaiting his trial for the murder of his wife and mother-in-law.

The Lee county board of supervisors completed their September meeting this morning, after transacting a great deal of business. Most of the work was done at yesterday afternoon's session, which was late in convening, and which kept the supervisors busy until late in the evening.
A great deal of the time was taken up in the reports of committees to whom bills against the county had been referred.

Wichers Re-Engaged.

The alms house committee was the first to report, their report showing the affairs of the county home to be in excellent condition, and recommending the reappointment of Mr.
and Mrs. Clyde Wicher as superintendent and matron. Their report was concurred in by the board, which insured the re-engagement of Mr. and Mrs. Wicher for the 13th consecutive year, recognition of their efficient services.

Fees and Salaries.

The fees and salaries committee, to which had been referred the question of salary for the probation officer, a new creation of the legislature, reported that they had agreed on $300 per year as the salary to be paid W. H. Winn, who was appointed to the office by Judge Farrand last March. The committee also recommended the following changes in salaries of county officials, all of which the board agreed to:

Circuit clerk $1,500
Deputies to circuit clerk 1,800
Treasurer's deputy hire 1,000
Sheriff's deputy 1,800
County Clerk special deputy... 2,200

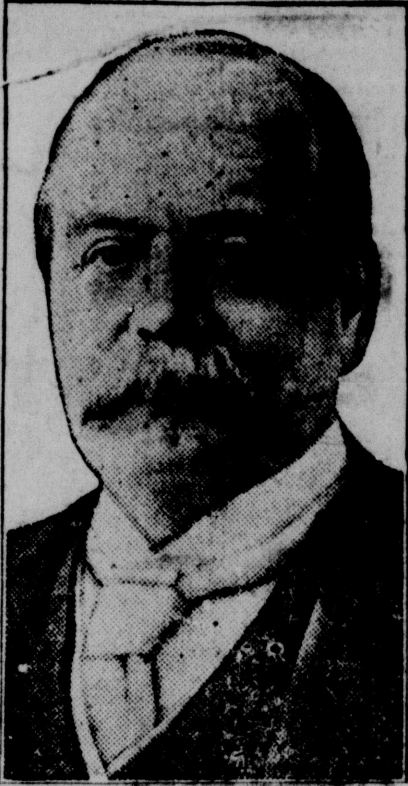

Board of Review Gets Pay.

Among the bills presented were:
Sheriff Reid for feeding prisoners since the June meeting, that item being $133, and the salaries of board of review; the total amount allowed the board was $800.

Township Tax Levies.

The certification of the tax levies of the various townships was read, and the board approved the levies and instructed the county clerk to spread the tax. The levies will be found elsewhere in this paper. However, the reading of the data showed that few of the townships are able to maintain their roads on the regular road and bridge levy, many of them reporting special assessments for the purpose, and the condition caused the supervisors to discuss the automobile license question. It was shown that the state law provides that license

SIR GEORGE REID

for the Commonwealth of Australia in London, is being entertained extensively in the United States. This week he is the guest in Chicago of the Association of Commerce, the British Empire Association and the Press Club.

shall be apportioned among the various counties of the state, but that the legislature has not done this for a number of years. Accordingly Chairman Edwards appointed Supervisors Prescott, Gross and Burkett to investigate the matter and report to the board at its next meeting.

County Tax Levy.

The county tax levy for 1913 was reported by the finance committee and was approved by the board. The amounts to be assessed for the various funds are:

Supplies, etc. $5,200
Alms house 8,000
Aid of the poor 8,000
County half of township

Bridges 6,000
Aid to the blind 2,000

Judges, juries, etc. 8,500
Fuel and light 2,000

Repairs, etc. 2,500
Elections 2,900

Salaries 7,800
Birth and death certificates and bounties 200

Board of review 1,000

Court house bonds 10,900
Total $65,000

East Grove Bridges.

The committee appointed to act on the construction of two bridges in East Grove reported that the contracts for the bridges had been let to J. P. Harvey, that the work had been satisfactorily completed and that the county's one-half of the cost of the structures was:

32-foot bridge $408.50
28-foot bridge 314.50

Approaches 20.00
Total $723.00

To Protect Wires.

The board also considered the advisability of providing that all wires stretched in the country, which carry electricity, shall be insulated, and accordingly Supervisors Gross, Self and Young were named as a committee to investigate the matter and to adopt some scheme to bring about the desired condition. The committee will report at the December meeting of the board.

Abolish Guard at Jail.

Sheriff Reid explained to the supervisors that after the arrest of Warren Sanders for his horrible murder at Ashton he had placed a guard over the prisoner in the county jail to prevent suicide. He told the board that the cost of this guard was about $1 per day, and asked the supervisors if they wished to keep the guard there.
The matter was talked over to some extent, the board finally deciding the guard was no longer necessary and instructing the sheriff to remove him.

Institute Fund.

At this morning's session of the board the report of the teachers' institute fund was presented, showing receipts during the year of $533.00 and expenditures of $459.51, the balance on hand being $73.93.

The board also heard invitations to send delegates to the meeting of the state charitable organizations and

DAYLIGHT ROBBERY AT FREEPORT HOME

PLUNDER VALUED AT SEVERAL HUNDRED DOLLARS SECUR-ED BY THE THIEF.

Freeport Standard: Jewelry valued at several hundred dollars was stolen from the M. V. B. Elson home shortly before noon in one of the most daring daylight robberies that has ever been committed in this city. The man was heard in the house and when Mrs. N. C. Tuckett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elson called, he ran down the front stairway out of the house and across to Lincoln avenue. He has not been captured.

Mrs. Elson and her daughter were in the yard of the home and the maid was in the kitchen. Mrs. Tuckett came into the house and hearing a noise upstairs called, believing that her father had come home; as she received no response she at once realized that burglars were at work. As she stepped back into the dining room the robber, a very large man, came down the front stairs and rushed out of the front door. Mrs. Tuckett pursued him. He ran down the driveway, but later changed his course and ran across the street, cutting through lots and going onto Lincoln avenue. The police were called immediately, and a search was made.

ERWIN'S NAME IS WITHDRAWN

COMMITTEEMAN FORDHAM THIS MORNING WIRED WITH-DRAWAL.

H. L. Fordham, state progressive committeeman, this morning wired Chauncey Dewey, chairman of the state committee, withdrawing Attorney John E. Erwin's name as a candidate for the progressive nomination for congressman at large. The telegram was sent early and was no doubt in the hands of the state executive committee when they convened at 10 a. m. today for the purpose of selecting the party's two candidates.

The action was taken following a conference between Mr. Fordham and Attorney Erwin, the decision being reached when the attorney pleaded an unusual amount of professional business, which would prevent his devoting the time he should to a campaign.

Whiteside's "Kickers."

However, it is rumored that the small tactics practiced by J. T. Williams of Sterling, whose sole claim to recognition in the new party lies in the fact that he walked out of the meeting of the republican state delegates with Chauncey Dewey, influenced the local leaders of the progressive party to withdraw Mr. Erwin.

MRS. WALTER PRESTON EXTINGUISHES FIRE

FOUND WALL PAPER AND WOOD-WORK BURNING AND ACTED QUICKLY.

The quick discovery by Mrs. Walter Preston of a fire which had started in the ceiling of the kitchen last evening prevented a blaze which might easily have proven serious, for when Mrs. Preston, investigating after smelling smoke, rushed into the kitchen the paper on the ceiling was all ablaze and the woodwork had caught fire in a few places. She extinguished the fire with a few pails of water. The fire started from the gas jet, the shield of which had become misplaced, heat setting fire to the paper.

AVIATOR PECK KILLED BY FALL

Noted Flyer Loses Control of Machine and Plunges
to Earth.

WARNED NOT TO MAKE ASCENT

Air Puffy and Uncertain, But Plucky Airmen Braved the Danger, Only to Meet With Disaster—
"Spiral" Was Thrilling.

Chicago, Sept. 12.—Aviator Paul Peck, twenty-four years old and holder of the American duration record, was killed on the Cicero flying field by a fall of fifty feet in his biplane. He had ascended despite warnings against the puffy wind.

The accident occurred at 5:45 o'clock in the afternoon and Peck was rushed to the St. Anthony de Padua hospital. The gasoline tank tore loose from its fastenings and crushed his skull, while the engine, crashing through the wreckage, broke both his legs.

Peck is known as a very careful aviator and held the American record for remaining in the air four hours and thirty-three minutes.

Went Into Air Despite Warning.

Peck went into the air in spite of the customary posted warning from Field Director Andrew Drew, cautioning flyers against the puffy wind.

Peck thought the speed of his bi-plane would be sufficient to carry him through the gusts and puffs of wind that made capizing appear likely to the aviator who should dare the air.
Glenn L. Martin of Los Angeles took his extra-powered speed machine up and had little difficulty in keeping right side up, in spite of the wind.

Peck, believing his craft as speedy as Martin's, followed the Californian into the air. He had made several circles of the field and at 800 feet altitude appeared to have gone well above the worst of the gusts. Then, in what aviators on the field considered an ill-judged maneuver, he began to spiral down.

The fliers below were astonished to see how steeply he banked the aero-plane up, while making circles of 80 feet diameter, knowing that with his small surfaced aeroplane the danger from sliding sideways into "the cone" of the spiral was so much greater.
Their fears were shown to be justified when the machine came within about 200 feet of the earth.

Uses Right Tactics Too Late.

By this time the aeroplane was slipping inwardly at an alarming rate.
Using, too late, the tactics he should have used farther up, Peck pulled up on his elevator, then working as a rudder, so steeply was he banked, and swung around in shorter circles; but he had started too late to check the terrific slipping.

Realizing this, he again, too late once more, applied a restorative maneuver, by trying to dive heading "into the low side," or toward the lower wing, and, being only about fifty feet above the ground, he smashed at full speed directly to earth. Puffs of wind, apparent to spectators, added to his trouble and prevented all his efforts to right himself.

The gasoline tank tore loose from its fastenings and fell on his head and neck, fracturing his skull and crushing his spine. The revolving motor framework fell with a roar across his legs and broke both of them. An automobile rushed him to St. Anthony de Padua hospital, where he died.

Paul Peck, who frequently is confused with Capt. Paul Peck of the United States army, is a native of West Virginia. He is a colonel in the state militia there and a member of Governor Glasscock's personal staff.

While he makes his home in Washington, D. C., his parents live in West Virginia. His young wife died in Washington last April after a transfusion of blood from her husband had been made in an attempt to save her life.

which comes the active competition son of foreign and American skill, being on Cicero field.

OFFICES HAVE TURNED IN CON-SIDERABLE MONEY THE PAST YEAR.

The annual report of County Treasurer Frank C. Vaughan for the year ending Sept. 1 as approved by the finance committee and adopted by the board of supervisors at their closing session this morning, shows an exceptionally healthy condition for Lee county and also shows that the treasurer's, sheriff's, circuit clerk's and county clerk's offices have turned some tidy sums into the treasury as surplus from their expenses. The report shows total receipts during the year amounting to $135,772.24, the Good Balance on Hand.

The report on disbursements for the year shows expenditures totaling $86,048.04, leaving a balance of $49,724.20 on hand. The cost of juries in the county for the year is interesting, the report showing that the juries in the circuit court cost the county $5,720.70, county court, $2-315.65 and coroner's juries, $148.

REGISTRATION DAYS OCCUR TWICE NEXT MONTH

Registration days for the general election November 5 will be Saturday, Oct. 5 and Tuesday, Oct. 15.

Legal voters must register in person if they desire to vote at a general election. No vote can be sworn in on election day. New registration books will be open this fall and a voter must see that his name is properly registered, as no names will be copied from the old books. No voter can register for another. If you are not registered you cannot vote.

The old registration books will not be used, as an entirely new registration is required by law.

The statute says: "A new general registration shall be made by the board of registry in every year in which a congressional election occurs and just prior thereto, the first day of such registration being on the Saturday immediately preceding the Tuesday four weeks before such election, and the second registration being on Tuesday three weeks before such election. At every general election every person desiring registration must appear in person and make application, under oath, as in the case of the first registration herein provided."

There will doubtless be a large registration this fall owing to the unusual interest that is being manifested in the campaign.

CHAMPION'S WIFE COMMITTS SUICIDE

Mrs. Jack Johnson Shoots Self
After Decrying Her
State of Life.

OSTRACISM BEHIND TRAGEDY

White Wife of Negro Pugilist Dead at Hospital After Inflicting Pistol Wound on Self in Fit of Despondency.

Chicago, Sept. 12.—Mrs. Jack Johnson, wife of the world's heavyweight champion, killed herself here by sending a revolver bullet through her right temple. She was taken to the Providence hospital, where it was said that she never regained consciousness.

The shooting occurred in the Johnson home, 3344 Wabash avenue. The revolver shot was heard at 10:30 o'clock. Neighbors rushed into the house to find the bleeding body of the woman lying on the floor.

She was alone in the house at the time. Her pugilist husband is thought to have been in his saloon, Cafe de Champion, 41 West Thirty-first street.

No Note for Motive.

There was no note left to tell the story of the tragedy, but it is known that the white wife of the negro champion never has been happy during their married life. When she accompanied her husband to Las Vegas, N.
M., during his recent ring battle there,
she was heard to complain.

"I am a marked woman," she told several of her few friends. "I cannot go any place and am given no consideration as a human being. Once I was a well-known woman. I was liked by everybody. Now, because my husband is a black man, I have become a recluse—a social outcast. I wish I never had married Jack."

The woman's history is almost as well known as that of her husband.
She was married to Johnson a little more than a year ago. The marriage took place in Pittsburgh, the home of her former husband. Before her second marriage she was Mrs. Elta Duryea, wife of one of the most prominent horsemen in the East and herself well known in society circles. Her first husband's family was of the famous Long Island Duryea stock.

Story of Unhappiness.

Always with Johnson she is said to have been unhappy. Only pretense and a determination to keep her sadness from the eyes of her friends is said to have made it possible for her to bear up thus long under the severe censure that has been heaped upon her because of her marriage to the negro.

Mrs. Johnson was to have left Chicago for Las Vegas, N. M., together with Mrs. Edward Smith, wife of a sporting writer, who intended to join her daughter, who is ill there. Mrs.
Johnson was seized with a nervous spell, one of the many she has suffered in the last two years, according to her husband, shortly after supper, and decided not to make the trip.
Johnson went to the Rock Island depot, where his wife had agreed to meet Mrs. Smith, to inform the latter of Mrs. Johnson's illness and her decision to postpone the journey for a day.

Mesdames Brink, Burket, Graves, Miller and Llevan entertained yesterday afternoon at North Side church for Mrs. Clemmer, who will soon depart for Ohio to reside. Mrs. Clemmer is one of the charter members of the Missionary society of the church and one of the earnest workers of the church.

Seventy-two ladies were entertained during the afternoon. The parlors were decorated with a profusion of flowers, the colors being green and white and shell pink. A beautiful rug, in the colors of green and white, adorned the center of the large room and a table bearing a huge bowl of pink roses, with large bouquets everywhere will give an idea of the beauty of the decorations.

A delightful afternoon was spent by everyone. As each guest entered she was given a slip of paper with a number and as soon as all had gathered, the different numbers were called and the lady having the number responded with a little speech or sentiment, poetry or prose.

Delicious refreshments were served. Brick ice cream in pink and white and a variety of cakes were included in the menu. Altogether the afternoon proved one of much pleasure, and all wished Mrs. Clemmer much happiness in her new home, and voiced their regrets at her departure.

Bernice—Removing wrinkles from the face is really a cinch. It isn't necessary to wear a mask, although you can do so if you think it will improve your looks to any great extent. The best way is to grasp the skin firmly an inch or two northeast of the wrinkle, pull it taut where the wrinkle was and iron it with a hot iron for several minutes. The method is the same as that used by tailors in pressing trousers. When the wrinkle reappears the same operation should be followed.

MANY SAW PICTURES OF OLIVER TWIST

NAT GOODWIN AS FAGIN WAS EXCELLENT—BILL SYKES, NANCY AND THE REST ALL THERE—BERNHARDT IN CAMILLE IN DIXON NEXT WEEK.

Something new and especially pleasing in the motion picture line was presented to Dixonites last evening at the Dixon opera house. Oliver Twist presented in any form would, of course, make the biggest kind of a hit, but it was extraordinarily fine as acted by Nat Goodwin, Marie Doro and other such noted actors and actresses. The play is one that all, old and young, should be familiar with. If you have read Charles Dickens' famous book, the play will hold special interest for you, and if you have not, the seeing of the characters brought to life and living over their experiences as born in the wonderful brain of the English writer, will impress you more vividly and tell you the story more plainly than reading the book ever can, for a book is written merely in an effort to paint scenes and show characters to the eyes of the world with mere words. The words try to describe the picture. Here you can see the picture itself.

The picture will be shown at the Dixon opera house again tonight.

Bernhardt in Camille.

As a further evidence of the desire to give the Dixon public the best there is (if any is needed) the management will announce in a day or two the date of another wonderful picture show which they are making an effort to get, Sarah Bernhardt in Camille, direct from a many weeks' run in one of the big Chicago playhouses. It cost $30,000 to produce this picture.

Dramatic Notes

FAMILY THEATRE

The Great Archie and Lottie, the European Acrobatic Tricksters, will appear in an act called Watch the Chair, which is new and mystifying, and Lewis & Zoeller, those two clever boys and a piano, will complete the bill for the last half of this week at the Family. Both acts are new and novel.

PRINCESS THEATRE.

This evening the Princess will offer a special two-reel subject called Their Lives for Gold. The story is an interesting one from start to finish and shows the race for gold by two men, whom nothing but death could stop. The other picture is a comedy called Where There's Soap, There's Hope.

THE ROSARY

Rowland & Clifford's play, "The Rosary," is repeating this season with remarkable success. This play, as everybody remembers, was the hit of last season, when it broke many house records. The play was written by Edward E. Rose, author of The Prisoner of Zenda, and many other successes, and has become as much of a favorite with theatregoers throughout the country as any of Mr. Rose's former dramas. The play from the start tells how Bruce Wilton has amassed a fortune which he lavishes upon his wife, Vera. Their home is a happy one until there creeps into it the note of menace. No one hears of it at first but Fr. Kelly, a priest, the former tutor of Bruce. Quietly he goes to work to find the person who is causing the adverse influence in the household. Almost on the verge of discovering the cause, calamity descends upon the Wilton house and Bruce's fortune is swept away in such a way that he believes his wife was the cause of his ruin. Husband and wife are separated the home is destroyed, and yet the cause of all of this disaster is unknown. Fr. Kelly, however, with resolute zeal, perseveres in his work, to fathom the mystery and finally succeeds in his undertaking. He finds the one who has caused all the misery and eventually restores the home. The scenic environments of the play are extremely attractive and place much credit on Rowland & Clifford's efforts. The play will be seen at the opera house next Tuesday, April 17th, with the cast consisting of Blosser Jennings as Father Kelly, Edith Winchester, Oliver Hinsdell, Gerald Clute, Florence Keen, Bess Marshall, Le Orland, Wm. Connors and Harry Gotschall.

OLYMPIC—CHICAGO.

"The Man Higher Up" a new American play in four acts by Edith Ellis, based on Henry Russell Miller's novel of the same name, will have its metropolitan premiere at the Olympic theatre on Sunday evening, Sept. 15. Jos. M. Gaites has given the piece a splendid production and the cast he has selected is an excellent one, for among the players are Janet Beecher, for two seasons leading woman in The Chorus Lady; George W. Wilson, Albert Perry, Eugene O'Rourke, Geo. Parker, Edgar Norris, Richard Malchion, Frank S. Bixby, Aubrey Noyes, George Schillinger, Gerome Gaylord, Harry Gwynette, Mary B. Strand, Ada Gifford, Grace Henderson and Kate Jepson.

While the theme of The Man Higher Up is, of course, of a political nature, it is said to be treated in an entirely original manner; in fact, the play is more of a romance of present day politics rather than an analytical discussion of a political situation. The play contains a story of strength and power, vigor and virility, with an appeal of equal force to men and women. In Mr. Miller's novel, Bob McAdoo is an imposing and winning character and so he is in the play. It is a story of a life full of action, conflict and strife and McAdoo's love for Eleanor Sanger is heart-stirring in its intense reality.

GIVES WARD MILLER'S BASE BALL HISTORY

SPORTING EXPERT HAS MUCH TO SAY OF DIXON BOY.

MURPHY TELLS HOW MILLER BECAME A CUB

Murphy says Miller Cost Him $11,000, as Much as Rube Marquard—They Let Him Slip Through Their Fingers Once.

Tom Bashaw, sporting expert of the Chicago Evening Post, has the following to say regarding Ward Miller of Dixon, who is now regular right fielder with the Chicago Cubs: Didn't happen to know, did you, that Ward Miller, the Cubs' outfielder who it is promised will romp around Frank Schulte's summer garden during the time the latter star is paying a little penalty because his "foot slipped," cost as much as Rube Marquard?

No? Well, if anybody knows how much Ward cost, Mr. Charles Webb Murphy ought to, shouldn't he?

To be sure McGraw's "$11,000 beauty" is said to have cost that sum in cold cash. Mr. Murphy will be allowed to tell herewith how Miller cost the man who writes the Cubs' checks an equal sum in players and cash, the latter end amounting to 5,000 beans.

Lets Him Slip Through Once.

That was after Miller had slipped through Mr. Murphy's fingers once—something which a good ball player doesn't do very often—but the boss is glad he has him now even if he did come high at the finish.

"Ward Miller's a subject I always like to drop everything and talk about," said Mr. Murphy when the subject was brought up. The afternoon was one of the scorches we've had this week and the boss was busy looking over the dope on players he has in view for next season—and a likely lot he's picking over, too.

"Miller is just about 26 years young, and was born and raised in Dixon, Ill. About four years ago he was playing center field in the Warsaw, Ind., team. I heard about his work and while I was watching the Cubs' great battle for the pennant that season, 1908 (that bunch of figures means a whole lot to Mr. Murphy, Chance, Johnny Evers, Merkle and a host of others), I had one eye on Miller and his work.

Steals Ninety Bases in Season.

"Ward stole 90 bases for the Warsaw team that season and batted .346. I drafted him before anyone else discovered him and it cost me $300."

(That was where Mr. Murphy had Miller for $300 on a draft—the next time it took a small cyclone to blow him back to Cubville.)

"I remember that deal well—and guess I will never forget it. The late and lamented Harry Pulliam was president of the National league then. I got a tip that Miller's arm was bad and that he couldn't throw. I asked waivers on him on the strength of that information and Pittsburg claimed him.

Clark Griffith Lands Him.

"Clark Griffith was managing the Cincinnati Reds then and took a liking to Miller the following season. In fact he liked him so well that he gave Blaine Durbin, the pitcher, and $1,000 for Miller.

"During the season of 1910 Miller was playing right field for the Cincinnati team in a game on the West Side when the Cubs were fighting hard for another pennant, and eventually won it. That day Miller threw two of our fighting Cubs out at the plate from right field.

"That evening after the game Frank Chance came to me and said: 'Boss, whoever told you that kid couldn't throw was crazy with the heat; if he can throw like that he's good enough for me.' I thought so, too, but it was too late. Miller had already been released to Montreal, and we had to go after him in another way.

Thinks Bargain Good One.

"When I finally landed Ward I considered that I had paid the equivalent of $11,000 for him, because I gave $5,000 in cash, Catcher Angermier, Outfielder Connolly and another player for his release. Maybe he did come high, but I had to get him, and now is the time he's showing me how sorry I am that I didn't hold onto him when I first had him.

"Of course he has improved a lot and—

"Johnny Evers says Miller's the fastest man in the league today.

"Ward is an earnest fellow and an earnest ball player; he's married and settled down, and that means a whole lot to a player and his manager. And another thing—that fellow Miller's a regular 'crab' if the team doesn't win; he wants to help win, but above all he wants his team to win.

"I'll never lie awake at night worrying over the investment I made when I got Ward Miller back into the Cubs' cage, believe me!"

Is Batting .317 Just Now.

Miller is one of the three Cubs who are batting over the coveted .300 at the present writing. When the last official averages were given out (last Saturday) his average was .317; he had played in 55 games, hit safely 46 times out of 145 times up and scored 25 runs. Is it any wonder the Cubs' boss thinks his investment was a good one.

"Guess Miller'll play right field now that Schulte's out, won't he," we ventured, trying to touch on the subject of "Wildfire" as deftly and diplomatically as possible.

"Oh, for the present I guess," replied the Cubs' boss. "I haven't seen Schulte as yet and hope everything'll be all right. I hope he's more sinned against than sinning and that he'll explain satisfactorily. I'm sorry about it and trust it will be adjusted real soon."

P. S.—Since getting the above dissertation off our chest Miller has made a bid for even more flattering praise by winning yesterday's game from Boston for the Cubs. Besides an errorless afternoon in the field, Ward scored three of the Cubs' six runs after making three hits—two of 'em doubles—and stole the third pillow in the ninth. Two of his fielding catches were "scintillated."

CHAPTER XVII.

A State of Siege.

Cayley's discovery of the tracks furnished the last element of the drama which was to play itself out that winter upon this stage which had been so strangely set for it. It was just three days since, flying slowly northward before a mild southerly breeze, the ice pack below him, he caught his first glimpse of the unknown land where Captain Fielding had met his tragic fate so many years before. Three days since he had witnessed, from aloft, the murder of a man he might have saved, the man to whom, had he saved him, he might have turned for exonerating from a stain upon his name which was now ineradicable.

Three days ago he had thought his world was empty, swept clean of human concern and human affection. Three days ago he had not known that Jeanne Fielding existed.

As for the identity of the monster who had left the proof of his existence in those tracks which Philip had discovered in the snow, they of course had no certain knowledge, nevertheless, they entertained but little doubt that he was Roscoe himself. The footprints were immense, Cayley said, and their distance apart bespoke the stride of a giant.

If it were Roscoe who had been crouching there behind the boulder, then it seemed to them unlikely that he was here alone; unlikely that he had not at least two or three of his crew with him.

That idea, when it first occurred to them, brought little added terror with it. The person of the monstrous murderous ruffian, who was the chief, dwarfed his subordinates to pygmies. Yet when they came to think over the situation, reasonably, this uncertainty as to the number of their enemy proved a vital element in it. It put an unequivocal veto upon Cayley's first plan, which was to start out at once and take the aggressive against their enemy, before he should have time to move against them.

This bit of beach where the hut stood was practically fortified. The cliff behind it was absolutely sheer, and was capped with deep, perpetual snow. Half a mile to the westward was the promontory, and about half a mile up the beach from the hut, to the eastward, the glacier projected its ice masses in a long line out to seaward. This glacier provided the only practicable means of entrance to the interior valley and the ledge where the gold was.

By means of a large scale map, Cayley pointed out to Jeanne this advantage of their position. "So long as we stick to this bit of beach," he said, "we can't be rushed nor surprised. No one can attack us without either coming down the glacier at one end, or around the promontory at the other. From either direction they've got to approach without cover. Of course if there are a lot of them, we can't have any chance. But it may be there's only one, and it's likely that there are not more than three."

"But at night," said the girl, "at night there'll be nothing to prevent their coming as close as they please. They may be out there, not a dozen yards away."

"They're not doing much if they are. We're securely barricaded here, and they can't attempt to break in without giving us fair warning. Unless there are too many of them we should beat them at that game. No, the time to look out for them is when we're outside the hut, out on the beach doing the things we'll have to do—bringing in firewood, looking for more game, and so on."

"Shall we have to do that? Can't we just stay in here, safe?"

"The daylight will answer that question for me," he said. "We must make the most of it. A month from now there'll be but little. We mustn't make prisoners of ourselves until the winter does it for us. There is one thing, though," he added thoughtfully after a little silence, "one thing that I must do at once, and that is to destroy these sheds where they kept their stores. They would furnish a cover—as good a cover as any enemy could ask for. They hinder our view up the beach."

"He's Afraid," Said Jeanne, After a Little Thoughtful Silence.

"How long do you suppose it will last?" she asked, in a voice that shook a little. "How long can it last? How long can we live like that, even supposing that our watch is effective and that they aren't able to surprise us?" She clasped her hands, with a shudder, and gripped them between her knees. "Oh, if it would only happen soon," she went on, "whatever it is!"

"What I don't understand," said Cayley, "is why they haven't attacked us already. Why have they waited until we are fortified and secure? Why didn't they attack us yesterday morning when they would have found us helpless?"

"Surely," said Jeanne, "he couldn't have hoped for a better opportunity to attack me than he had when I was alone there in the twilight, before you came flying down out of the sky; and you said he was quite near. Why do you suppose he didn't? Why do you suppose he waited?"

"And even after I came down," said Cayley, "I was helpless for a minute while I was getting clear of my places. Yes, that was his chance, and yet he waited. After we had gone, he apparently scaled the cliff, for his tracks led right up to it, and then disappeared. It's not quite so precipitously steep there as it is here, but I would hardly have dreamed that a human being could climb it."

"He's afraid," said Jeanne after a little thoughtful silence, "simply afraid. But if he's the man we think he is, it wouldn't be a human fear. It must be superstitious in some way. It wouldn't be so fearful if he felt that, after the two glimpses he had of you. I remember how I felt at first when you alighted on the floor beside me. He's seen you twice, remember. The first time at night in the fog; the second time in broad day, with the sun on your wings. No, it isn't strange if he thinks of you, not as a man at all, but as a sort of terrible angel keeping guard over me. When I go very long without seeing you, or when I see you in flight, I get to thinking of you in that way myself."

"If that's the way he thinks of me," said Cayley, "we'll try not to disabuse him. A belief like that is an item on our side of the ledger, certainly. And we haven't any such balance in our favor that we can afford to throw an advantage away, even a small one."

Really the balance of advantage between them and their enemy was amazingly even. They had the hut, the enemy the stores. They had Captain Fielding's journal, their enemy the experience and practical knowledge of the country. They were two, with but a single weapon between them. Their enemy, for aught they knew, might be one or a half a dozen; and how armed, they did not know.

Fortunately, no prophetic vision enabled them to anticipate, on that first evening, the length of time that that precarious life and death balance would maintain itself. They had agreed, Philip and Jeanne, that the only thing to do was to wait and to maintain an unflinching vigilance. But both of them thought of the duration of this wait in terms of hours, or at most, days. Had they foreseen that it would stretch itself out into weeks and months, they might well have despaired.

There were two things that kept them from succumbing to despair. The first was that they never really permitted themselves to hope, to indulge in any thoughts of a summer's day when their horizon should be cut by the spars and funnels of a ship bringing relief. They were simply going to live one day at a time. For every day that they could snatch out of the hand of death, they would give thanks. It was the only attitude possible for people in their condition.

And the thing that helped them to maintain it was the abundance of necessary routine occupation. They divided their day into watches. Cayley slept from four o'clock in the afternoon until midnight and then kept watch alone, so the girl had done, until eight. During that period they remained inside the hut. The day, from eight until four, they spent out of doors, when the condition of the weather made this possible, either at work or merely tramping up and down for exercise.

At first there was a good deal of work to do. Tearing down the sheds which clustered about the hut, and reducing their frames and planking to firewood was an arduous task, but he worked at it until it was done, Jeanne standing sentinel all the time.

When it was done, they were practically secure against surprise, for from their windows, with the aid of a field-glass which Cayley had found in the observatory, they were able to sweep the whole beach absolutely clean, in both directions.

And almost every day while the light lasted, with Jeanne armed with the revolver, keeping watch before the hut, Cayley took to his wings and patrolled the beach, from the glacier to the promontory, high up above the level of the crest of the cliff. His flight was always along the same track. He never winged his way inland nor out to sea.

There were two reasons for this,

He dared not go so far away from Jeanne that a flash and a swoop would not bring him to her side. The other reason was, that if a superstitious fear of this great man-bird were really what deterred their enemy from attacking them, it was well to let him believe that immunity from this portent could be secured by keeping away from this particular stretch of beach.

As the shortening days sped by and began to get themselves reckoned into weeks, the conviction grew upon Philip and Jeanne that their securest protection lay in his wings, in the terrorizing effect upon their invisible, silent enemy of the majestic winged apparition which was so often seen soaring in mid-air above the hut and the little stretch of beach surrounding it. Something was protecting them evidently. Almost every week brought some evidence, not only of the existence but the nearness of their enemy. They never actually caught sight or sound of him, but some times when the wind blew from the right quarter they could make out, with their field-glass, a wreath of brownish smoke, such as would be given off by burning whale oil, drifting down from somewhere along the glacier, and made visible by the dazzling whiteness of that background.

And sometimes they saw track in the newly fallen snow, never coming very near the hut, but trespassing a little way, either down from the glacier or up from the headland, upon the stretch of beach they were defending. They never found the tracks of more than a single man, and these were always the same. So that they came to believe, although they could not know, that they had only one man to deal with.

They sometimes speculated on the question whether he was Roscoe or some other member of the Walrus crew; really, in fact, they found it impossible to hope that it was any other than he.

They got proof of his identity, or what amounted to it, along toward the end of October. Cayley's keen eyes caught, one day, from up aloft where he was soaring, the glint of something on the beach near the foot of the headland. He circled down in a long swoop, caught it up without alighting and mounted into the air, a trick of aeronautics which made Jeanne, accustomed as she was by now to seeing him in flight, catch her breath a little.

When he descended and alighted beside her a few moments later, he showed her a sheath knife, the haft of which was a rudely carved walrus tusk. The hand of the last user of it had had blood upon it, and its imprint upon the surface of the ivory was plainly to be seen. The lines in the palm were traceable and, lengthwise, along the side of the handle, the print of an immense thumb.

"You see," said Cayley quietly, "he was using this knife left-handed."

The girl paled a little as she handed the weapon back to him, but she spoke quietly enough:

"It's good to know," she said, "at least a relief."

G. A. R. VETERANS PARADE

Old Soldiers Make Brave Showing in Streets of Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, Sept. 12.—The Grand Army of the Republic has the same old spirit still. It is undaunted, though it limps in spots, and miraculously perennial.

In the grand parade of the forty-sixth national annual encampment, 1,800 old soldiers, the heroic remnants of the republic's grand army of 61-65, marched along the streets of Los Angeles in an inspiring way, and reeked the weight of time from their shoulders as though it were a bit of dust.

Champion Wrestler Murdered.

New York, Sept. 12.—The little town of Walden, N. Y., was stirred by the discovery that Jack Grace, champion wrestler of the eastern states, had been murdered in a room over a cigar store kept by Thomas Terwilliger.

Veteran of Two Wars Dead.

Savannah, Ga., Sept. 12.—Brig. Gen. W. W. Gordon, a veteran of the Civil and Spanish wars and well known as a soldier and statesman, died at Gretna, White Sulphur Springs, Va.

Celebrate Yom Kippur in Edifice Loaned by a Priest.

New York, Sept. 12.—For the first time, it is believed, in the history of the two churches, men and women of the Hebrew faith are using the parish hall of a Catholic church, loaned them for that purpose by a priest, in which to celebrate the feast of Rosh-Hashanah, ushering in the Jewish year 5673, and beginning the ten day period of prayer which ends with Yom Kippur, on September 21.

Greek Aviator Drowned.

Women

From Forty-Five to Fifty Are Much Benefited by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

The "change of life" is a most critical period in a woman's existence, and the anxiety felt by women as it draws near is not without reason.

When her system is in a deranged condition, she may be predisposed to apoplexy, or congestion of some organ. At this time, also, cancers and tumors are more liable to form and begin their destructive work.

Such warning symptoms as sense of suffocation, hot flashes, headaches, backaches, dread of impending evil, timidity, sounds in the ears, palpitation of the heart, sparks before the eyes, irregularities, constipation, variable appetite, weakness and inquietude, and dizziness, are promptly heeded by intelligent women who are approaching the period in life when woman's great change may be expected.

These symptoms are calls from nature for help. The nerves are crying out for assistance and the cry should be heeded in time.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is prepared to meet the needs of women's system at this trying period of her life. It invigorates and strengthens the female organism and builds up the weakened nervous system. It has carried many women safely through this crisis.

Mrs. Estella Gillispie

ONE CASE OUT OF MANY TO PROVE OUR CLAIMS.

St. Anne, Ill.—"I was passing through the change of life and I was a perfect wreck from female troubles. I had a displacement and bearing down pains, weak fainting spells, dizziness, then numb and cold feelings. Sometimes my feet and limbs were swollen. I was irregular and had so much backache and headache, was nervous, irritable and was despondent. Sometimes my appetite was good but more often it was not. My kidneys troubled me at times and I could walk only a short distance.

"I saw your advertisement in a paper and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I was helped from the first. At the end of two months the swelling had gone down, I was relieved of pain, and could walk with ease. I continued with the medicine and now I do almost all my housework. I know your medicine has saved me from the grave and I am willing for you to publish anything I write to you, for the good of others."—Mrs. ESTELLA GILLISPIE, R.F.D. No. 4, Box 34, St. Anne, Illinois.

Nagel Kills Plan to Modify Boat Regulations.

Secretary Refuses to Allow Steamers to Travel Without Sufficient Lifeboats for All.

Washington, Sept. 12.—Secretary Nagel of the department of commerce and labor has practically killed the plan to modify the stringent steamboat regulations adopted by the department of commerce and labor shortly after the Titanic disaster. He refused to permit coastwise steamers and lake, bay and river steamers, except in southern waters, to travel after September 15 without lifeboats and rafts sufficient to protect all passengers and crew.

Mr. Nagel granted permission for lake, bay, gulf and river steamers to ply in southern waters with lifeboats and rafts enough to accommodate at one time 60 per cent. of the passengers and crew. The line at which this modification will apply was fixed at the thirty-third degree, about the location of Charleston, S. C.

Danger below that latitude, Mr. Nagel says, is not so great as it would be farther north, and he does not desire to further any hardship upon ship-owners where protection is sufficient.

Mr. Nagel's refusal to make the proposed changes in the regulations came at the end of a day of consultation with Benjamin S. Cable, assistant secretary of the department of commerce and labor, and George Uhler, supervising inspector general of the steamboat inspection service. He declared that the rules, as amended on April 26, immediately after the Titanic disaster, were none too strict for the protection of human life.

VETERANS IN PARADE

5,500 CIVIL WAR VETERANS MARCH AT LOS ANGELES.

Streets Are Strewn With Flowers by Women and Children as Old Soldiers Pass By.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 12.—The Grand Army of the Republic has the same old spirit still. It is undaunted, though it limps in spots, and miraculously perennial.

In the grand parade of the forty-sixth national annual encampment, 5,500 old soldiers, the heroic remnants of the republic's grand army of '61-'65, marched along the streets of Los Angeles in an inspiring way, and flecked the weight of time from their shoulders as though it were a bit of dust.

All that, most of them did, but not all. Here and there one would come up that final grade from First street to Temple—the finish of the two-mile march—with strength about gone, face ghastly and legs tottering.

The streets which framed the picture were so thickly overhung with colors as to form almost a ceiling. The "mural" decorations were the people of Los Angeles, more than 300,000. Women and girls strewed flowers before the old soldiers along the line of march.

When it was finished, Commander-in-Chief Harvey M. Trimble exclaimed:

"It is the greatest parade ever held by the Grand Army. Perhaps it is the last, for such processions are a great strain on the fast ebbing strength of veterans."

SAYS MOSQUE MAY COLLAPSE

Recent Earthquake Badly Damaged Famous Structure Built in Sixth Century in Constantinople.

London, Sept. 12.—Sir Francis Fox, consulting engineer in Westminster and the city of London, in an interview regarding the damage done by the recent earthquake to the famous mosque of Santa Sophia, built by Justinian in the sixth century, at Constantinople, said that unless work of restoration was immediately undertaken the famous mosque was in immediate danger of collapsing.

ALLENS ARE SENTENCED

Father and Son to Die on November 22.

Two of Men Involved in Shooting Up Hillsville Courthouse to Be Electrocuted.

Wytheville, Va., Sept. 12.—Floyd Allen, the leader of the Allen clan, which shot up the Hillsville courthouse in Carroll county on March 4 last, when Judge Thornton L. Massie, Common-chair at Richmond on November 22.

killing Sheriff Webb, was also sentenced to die on the same date as his father. Sentence was pronounced by Judge Walter R. Staples of Roanoke, who has presided over the trials.

The sentence will be carried out unless the supreme court grants the

The condemned received their sentences with the same stoicism which has characterized their conduct from the time of their arrest.
